

Josh Stevenson

Bar Manager

josh@larkspurvail.com

When you hear about everything Josh has going on in his life, you can barely believe he is one of the original Larkspur associates from the opening team. With his own photography business, and a passport full of stamps from faraway lands, he enraptures the Larkspur guests with tales and images of his travels.

His creative side flows effortlessly to his work as Beverage Director, as his signature cocktails are unique and wildly popular. Seeking out seasonal produce and obscure liqueurs, his newest, refreshing beverages are always a hit with his patrons. Coupled with his hilarious sense of humor, his signature cocktails have built a loyal clientele.

He has worked in restaurants since his teens and has covered the gamut of positions, from cooking, to serving tables, to managing, and training. Through his well-rounded scope, he has developed a strong sense of hospitality. “Yet, restaurant work has always allowed me to take time off for my photography and traveling,” Josh says. “The move to Vail after graduating from University of Colorado in Boulder, was a natural for me. I knew the long shoulder seasons would provide the opportunity to follow my passions.”

New parents to firstborn Owen, Josh and his wife, Jennifer look forward to this special chapter in their lives. The little one is sure to be gently initiated into their action-packed lifestyle and taught the joys of having true love of life.